César A. Alfonso, M.D. is President of the American Academy of Psychoanalysis and Dynamic Psychiatry (2010-2012). He is Training and Supervising Analyst at the New York Medical College Psychoanalytic Institute and Assistant Professor of Clinical Psychiatry at Columbia University College of Physician and Surgeons. Dr. Alfonso is a Fellow of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine, the New York Academy of Medicine, the American College of Psychoanalysts, and of the American Academy of Psychoanalysis and Dynamic Psychiatry.

Clinical Practice

Dr Alfonso currently practices as a psychiatric consultant at the Guild for the Blind and in solo private practice of psychodynamic psychiatry in New York City. His clinical interests include the psychiatric care of the medically ill; psychoanalytic treatment of artists and understanding creativity; relevance of psychoanalytic theory in contemporary psychotherapy; developmental milestones in adulthood including prosocial behavior; and psychodynamic aspects of psychopharmacology.

Research

His research interests include determinants of adherence and non-adherence, treatment of anxiety and mood disorders, and integrating psychiatric care in primary care settings.

Glucksmanmd@optonline.net

Dr. Glucksman is a Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, New York Medical College and an Attending Psychiatrist at Danbury Hospital in Danbury, CT. At The Psychoanalytic Institute of the New York Medical College, he is a Training and Supervising Analyst and on the Faculty of the Certification Course in Psychodynamic Psychotherapy. He supervises psychiatric residents and teaches a course on psychodynamic psychotherapy to PGY-III and IV residents at the New York Medical College. He maintains a clinical practice in general psychiatry and psychoanalysis in Connecticut and New York City. In addition to more than 50 articles published in professional journals, he has co-edited two books on the topics of affect and dreams. His own book “Dreaming: An Opportunity for Change” is concerned with understanding and using dreams during treatment. Research interests have included biofeedback psychotherapy, obesity, affect, the interface of neurobiology and psychoanalysis, the therapeutic relationship, the therapeutic process, and using dreams to predict, facilitate and document clinical change.

Grand Round Topics:

Using dreams to assess clinical change, predict core psychodynamic issues, and as an instrument to understand and interpret clinical material.

The Therapeutic Relationship: the roles of transference and the real relationship as facilitators of clinical change.

Curative Factors in Psychodynamic Psychotherapy: the roles of insight, transference, and the real or new object relationship.

Combined Psychotherapy and Pharmacotherapy: an appreciation of the interaction between neurobiology, psychotropic medication and psychotherapy

Sheila Hafter Gray, M.D.

Adjunct Professor of Psychiatry

shgray@post.harvard.edu

Dr. Hafter Gray is currently Adjunct Professor of Psychiatry in the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, President of the Accreditation Council for Psychoanalytic Education, Teaching Analyst in the Baltimore-Washington Institute for Psychoanalysis, a Trustee of the Consortium for Psychoanalytic Research, an Associate Editor of Psychodynamic Psychiatry and a member of the District of Columbia Medical Reserve Corps. She is a Fellow and former President of the American Academy of Psychoanalysis, a Distinguished 50-Year Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association and the 2011 recipient of its Lifers' Harold E. Berson Award. A lifelong interest in applying psychoanalytic principles in general psychiatry led her to participate in the development of a model of training psychotherapy for psychiatry residents. More recent interests in healthy defense mechanisms (adaptive style) and their relationship to the experience of trauma, particularly the trauma of military operations, and in the support of clinical research by clinicians, led to her oversight of several small research projects.

Dr. Kalman is Clinical Associate Professor of Psychiatry, Weill Medical College of Cornell University, and Adjunct Associate Professor of Psychiatry, NY Medical College. He has maintained a private practice in general psychiatry and psychoanalysis for over thirty years, integrating different techniques and understandings along with a primarily psychodynamic orientation. Dr. Kalman's current areas of interest and research involve split-treatment arrangements and the problem of inadequate communication between professionals treating the same individual. Other recently presented and published work involves problematic Internet use, specifically pornography. Dr. Kalman's other graduate degree is in health care administration, and he remains interested in health care delivery, economics, and policy.
